Amended regulations for the examination, applicable to students admitted from 1 October 2013 onwards, have been approved as follows:

MASTER OF EDUCATION

1. The M.Ed. Degree (part-time course) shall be awarded for advanced study. A candidate for the M.Ed. Examination must be approved by the Degree Committee for the Faculty of Education and the Board of Graduate Studies, who shall assign to each candidate a date of commencement of candidature.

2. Applications for admission as an M.Ed. student shall be sent to the Secretary of the Board of Graduate Studies.

3. The Board of Graduate Studies may approve as a candidate for the M.Ed. Examination any student who has satisfied the Board that by reason of previous study he or she is qualified to engage in graduate work in Education.

4. Applications for approval under Regulation 2 shall be sent to the Board of Graduate Studies so as to arrive not later than 30 June next preceding the date on which the applicant wishes her or his candidature to begin, provided that the Board shall have power to consider applications submitted after that date.

5. A candidate for the M.Ed. Degree (part-time course) shall be a registered Graduate Student who shall pursue in the University or similar institution approved by the Degree Committee concerned and by the Board of Graduate Studies a course of advanced study under the direction of a Supervisor appointed by the Degree Committee concerned and shall comply with any special conditions that the Degree Committee or the Board may lay down in a particular case. The course shall extend over two academical years; students are required to attend in all six terms of the year, beginning from the date announced by the Degree Committee for the start of lectures, classes, or other formal instruction.

6. The Board of Graduate Studies, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee, may allow a candidate to intermit her or his course for not more than six terms, except in exceptional circumstances, which terms shall not count for any purpose of these regulations. No student's name shall appear on the list of successful candidates for the M.Ed. Examination unless the Degree Committee is satisfied that the student has diligently attended the course.

8. The Faculty Board of Education shall announce not later than the end of the Easter Term each year the subjects to be covered in the course during the academical year next but one following; provided that the Board shall have the power of subsequently issuing amendments if they have due reason for doing so and if they are satisfied that no student's preparation for the examination is adversely affected.

9. The Faculty Board of Education shall have power to issue supplementary regulations determining the scope and manner of assessment of the examination, and shall be empowered to amend such supplementary regulations from time to time as they may think fit, due care being taken that sufficient notice is given of any change.

The examination shall include an oral examination on the thesis and the essays, and on the general field of knowledge within which they fall, save that the Examiners may, at their discretion, waive the requirement for an oral examination.

12. While studying in the University for the M.Ed. Examination, a candidate shall pay the appropriate University Composition Fee for each term of such study.

13. A student who has satisfactorily completed the course and has satisfied the Degree Committee in the M.Ed. Examination shall be entitled to proceed to the degree of Master of Education.

REGULATIONS FOR EXAMINATIONS

The General Board give notice that, on the recommendation of the Faculty Board or other authority concerned, the regulations for certain University examinations have been amended as follows:

Preliminary Examinations for the English Tripos, and the English Tripos

(Statutes and Ordinances, pp. 245, 249, and 316)

The General Board, on the recommendation of the Faculty Board of English, have approved draft Regulations for a new Preliminary Examination for Part I of the English Tripos; a revised Preliminary Examination for Part II of the English Tripos; and for a revised English Tripos with effect from October 2013, as set out in the Annex to this Notice.

The introduction of these new and revised Regulations is in response to a Review by the General Board of the Faculty of English in 2010 which made recommendations about the Faculty's undergraduate education programme and the teaching that supports it. The revised regulations retain the principal objectives, teaching approaches, and assessment procedures of the existing English Tripos while enhancing the provision of introductory teaching, the scope for borrowing papers from other Triposes, and the opportunities to study worldwide English literature.

General Regulations 6, Affiliated Students (Statutes and Ordinances, p. 173; see Grace 8 on p. 888), and 7, Preliminary Examinations (Statutes and Ordinances, p. 245), have also been amended accordingly.

Preliminary Examination for Part I

The new Preliminary Examination for Part I (which will be taken in the latter part of the first year of study), together with the teaching course preparatory to it, will give candidates the skills training and other forms of transitional teaching that will equip them for Part I of the Tripos itself. Candidates for the Preliminary Examination will be required to sit two three-hour papers out of a total of five available, which will each correspond to one of the periods covered by Papers 3, 4, 6, 7a, and 7b of the revised schedule of Part I Tripos papers.

Part I

The number of papers to be taken for Part I of the Tripos will be reduced from seven papers to six. There will be a clear framework of core lecture courses supporting these papers, beyond which students will be able to choose from a list of other lecture courses to be offered every year. One of the current dissertation options will be discontinued, together with the English Language for Literature paper (which will be replaced by introductory lectures) and the current European Languages and Literatures paper. Candidates who would previously have taken this latter paper will instead be able to borrow a paper from the Modern and Medieval Languages, Classical, or Anglo-Saxon, Norse, and Celtic Triposes. Under the revised Tripos, Part I papers will also allow for greater study of worldwide literature in the English language alongside study of the literature of the British Isles.

Part II

No major changes are proposed to the content of Part II of the Tripos. Regulations have been redrafted to increase flexibility so that alterations to the availability of papers can be more easily accommodated; also so that a place can be made for options directly linked to lecturers' current research interests.

The existing pattern of increasing specialization across the three years remains, along with the high proportions of research-led teaching and self-directed study that are distinguishing characteristics of the current Tripos, and which enable students to prepare themselves for a wide range of career options.

TimetablePreliminary Examination for Part I*

The Preliminary Examination for Part I will be available for study with effect from 1 October 2013, and will be examined for the first time in 2014.

Part I

The examinations for Part I of the English Tripos shall be held under the Old Regulations for the last time in 2014. In parallel with the timetable introduced for the Preliminary Examination for Part I, the amended structure for the Part I Tripos will be available for study with effect from 1 October 2013, and will be examined for the first time in 2015.

Preliminary Examination for Part II

The Preliminary examinations for Part II of the English Tripos shall be held under the Old Regulations for the last time in 2013. (Candidates studying towards Part II over two years with effect from 1 October 2012 will be able to offer the existing Preliminary Examination for Part II in 2013, and this will take a form that prepares them appropriately for offering the new Part II in 2014.)

The right to take in the second term after the student’s first term of actual residence the Preliminary Examination for Part II of the English Tripos; and the right to take in the fifth term after the student’s first term of actual residence Part II of the English Tripos, subject to the regulations for that Part which apply to Affiliated Students.

<sup>5</sup> The opportunity has been taken to update the order of seniority of graduates to reflect the recent establishment of Regius Professorships.

<sup>6</sup> Statutes and Ordinances, p. 172. Part I of the English Tripos cannot be taken in one year, and as candidates can no longer graduate with Part I there is therefore no opportunity, or reason for, a candidate to take it. The change provides for all candidates to take Part II, and to therefore be able to graduate. The Grace relates also to changes approved for the Preliminary Examinations for the English Tripos and the English Tripos (Statutes and Ordinances, pp. 245, 249, and 316), with effect from October 2013 (see p. 869).
