He hereby gives notice that in the opinion of the Council the proposed Statute makes no alteration of any Statute which affects the University, and does not require the consent of the University; that the interests of the University are not prejudiced by it, and that the Council has resolved to take no action upon it, provided that the Council will wish to reconsider the proposed Statute if it has not been submitted to the Privy Council by 27 May 2024.

Election to the Council

The election will run to the timetable published on 24 May for elections to the Board of Scrutiny and to the Nominating Committee for External Members of the Council. The Council has approved an addition to the schedule of Discussions in 2022–23, to enable the Report of the General Board on the outcome of the latest Academic Career Pathways promotions exercises to be discussed at the earliest opportunity. Joint Report of the Council and the General Board on changes to the University's Dignity at Work Policy and Grievance Policy: Notice in response to Discussion remarks

25 May 2023

The Council, in consultation with the General Board, has considered the remarks made by Professor Evans at the Discussion on 16 May 2023 concerning the above Report (Reporter, 2022–23: 6698, p. 635; 6701, p. 693).

Professor Evans notes the reference in the Report to the recent consultation conducted by the Office for Students (OfS) that closed on 4 May 2023. Professor Evans asks if the implementation of the proposed policies should be delayed to meet any changing requirements, should amendments be necessary to reflect any new condition of registration arising from the consultation. Professor Evans also cites forthcoming legislative amendments to the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 in connection with academic freedom of speech.

It is helpful to clarify the impact of these two matters individually. The legislative amendments to the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 arise from the new Higher Education (Freedom of Speech) Act 2023, which received Royal Assent on 11 May 2023. It is anticipated that the OfS will consult on its approach to the new mandatory conditions of registration as the next step in its implementation. Guidance is also expected from the OfS to support universities, colleges, staff and students with the new legal and regulatory requirements. No timeframe is currently available for this work. However, it is reasonable to anticipate that it may be some months before it is ready.¹

Separately, the OfS consultation referenced in the Report highlights a new approach to regulating harassment and sexual misconduct in higher education, in contrast with the self-regulatory approach in force since 2017. Whilst the proposed new registration condition focuses on the prevention of harassment and sexual misconduct for students, there are several proposals that include staff in their scope, with a plan to require universities to bring together all policies and procedures concerning harassment and sexual misconduct in one document. Changes to other University policies and processes for both students and staff are, therefore, likely to be needed should the proposals be adopted. As Professor Evans states, it is sensible to ensure alignment between all staff and student policies and processes in this area, although any changes to the policies that are the focus of this Report are likely to be relatively minor. Again, no timeframe is currently available for the publication of the new condition of registration, although the OfS is currently proposing a three-month window for its implementation once published.

In considering Professor Evans' question, the Council refers to the stated aims of the work on these policies – specifically improving the policies and processes available to staff to address inappropriate behaviour, and protecting people when reporting incidents and afterwards. Delaying the implementation of these policies whilst awaiting further information from the OfS would also result in a delay to improving the experiences of those staff subject to inappropriate behaviour. In addition, the Council notes that the facility to bring forward the one-year review of the policies to meet the mandatory conditions, as required, balances the current uncertainty around the timing of such changes with the ability to move forward with the stated improvements.

Professor Evans also posits that digital links do not form part of the University's historical record. Whilst the policies are not published in the body of the Reporter issue, they are part of the record and will be retained along with all other parts of the Reporter.

The Council is submitting a Grace (Grace 1, p. 708) for the approval of the recommendations of this Report. If the Grace is approved, the Council has agreed that the policies will be adopted from Tuesday, 20 June 2023.

Email address allocation and retention policy: Update

Further to the Notice published on 22 March 2023 (Reporter, 6693, 2022–23, p. 477), the Information Services Committee (ISC) considered a draft version of a new email address allocation and retention policy at its meeting on 23 May 2023. A summary of the key features of the policy, and how it has been refined as a result of consultation across the collegiate University, can be read on the University Information Services' webpages. The ISC endorsed the draft policy and asked for it to be passed to the Council and the General Board for consideration.
